

SUMMER LAW FELLOWSHIP

Student Biographies

SUMMER 2023

TFAS.ORG/LAW

DOMENIC AULISI

*Washington & Lee Law
Lexington, VA*

Domenic is a rising second-year law student with a B.A. in government and a minor in economics from the College of William & Mary in Williamsburg, VA. He spends his time in law school as a member of the Federalist, Antitrust and Consumer Law, and Business Law Societies at Washington & Lee. Domenic is interested in pursuing a legal career that focuses on the ever-growing number of intersections between law, finance and business. He will be seeking future internships and jobs that reflect this interest.

MATT BECK

*Yale Law
Glenlg, MD*

Matt is a J.D. candidate in the Yale Law School Class of 2025. This past semester, he interned for Judge Dabney Friedrich on the U.S. District Court for D.C. Over the summer, he will be working on impact litigation as a Dave Kennedy Fellow at the Institute for Justice. Before pursuing law, Matt served as a consultant at McKinsey and Company, where he counseled clients across a range of industries on transformational programs in corporate strategy and organization. He also has experience in government, having served as a confidential assistant in the Office of Management and Budget at the White House.

HILARY BOERGER

*GMU Antonin Scalia Law School
Bethesda, MD*

Hilary is originally from California but has been living in the D.C. area for the past five years. She just completed her second year at Antonin Scalia Law School, where she is the research editor of the National Security Law Journal. During law school, she has interned for The Honorable Lawrence VanDyke on the Ninth Circuit, the United States Coast Guard, the National Pollution Fund Center and the law firm Ferrari & Associates. Prior to law school she worked for several years as a paralegal at Quinn Emanuel and The Becket Fund for Religious Liberty.

EMILY BURTON

*Catholic University of America
Columbus School of Law
Alexandria, VA*

Emily Burton is a current federal Pathways intern for Chief Administrative Judge Glynn F. Voisin at the Federal Mine Safety and Health Review Commission, where she looks forward to spending the summer writing legal memoranda and decisions as well as deepening her knowledge of substantive and procedural law. She will also intern in international civil litigation for Giambrone & Partners in Palermo, Italy. Emily is editor-in-chief of Volume 32 of the Journal of Law and Technology, where she has recently authored a comment applying an originalist analysis of the First Amendment to the contemporary debate about moderating online misinformation. She is a founding fellow at the Project on Constitutional Originalism and the Catholic Intellectual Tradition, a Dean's List honoree, and a mentor to first-year law students. Emily was a summer law clerk at Romero Park, where she researched and drafted corporate litigation defense against class action suits.

ANDREW CEONZO

*GMU Antonin Scalia Law School
Arlington, VA*

Andrew just completed his first year of law school and is clerking for New Civil Liberties Alliance this summer. Andrew grew up in New York City and hopes to pursue a career in appellate litigation. He intends to pursue a clerkship after graduation and then work in government and private practice. Andrew serves on the board of directors for SNACK, a nonprofit that serves children and adults with autism and other intellectual and developmental disabilities. He is interested in pursuing pro bono opportunities in that field.

BEN COLLIER

*Alabama Law
Tuscaloosa, AL*

Ben has interned at two law firms in the past couple of years. One internship was at Webster Henry, a civil defense firm in Birmingham, Alabama, which involved sitting in on depositions and examining client portfolios. The other was at the Law Office of Rehan Khawaja, a private practice bankruptcy firm in Jacksonville, Florida, during which Ben attended client hearings and prepared briefs for the managing partner. Ben studied behavioral economics at the London School of Economics for a short summer program in 2021. He has been to Europe on a few other occasions, once to backpack in the Chamonix Alps and another time to take a cultural tour after graduating college. In college at Wake Forest University, Ben was a member of Theta Chi fraternity, where he served as rush chair and he was also a part of the Ethics Debate Club. Ben plans to join extracurriculars, like Moot Court at Alabama School of Law when it is offered next year. He is an Eagle Scout (Order of the Arrow) and graduated from the legacy youth leadership program at the Birmingham Civil Rights Institute.

JAMES DEMAREE
George Washington Law
Arlington, VA

James just completed his second year of law school. He serves as vice president of Externals for the Alternative Dispute Resolution skills board. A California transplant, James has loved his time in Arlington, which is where he and his wife welcomed their first baby. As a former ward of the court, who spent most of his young adult life homeless, family is his first priority. When he's not studying, James and his small family like to spend their time going to parks or sightseeing in D.C.

NATHANIEL DRUM
Wake Forest Law
Winston-Salem, NC

Nate first learned of his love for the law while serving his community as a probation and parole officer for the North Carolina Department of Public Safety. Seeing firsthand how the lack of quality legal representation impacts his community inspired Nate to pursue a career in litigation. At Wake Forest, Nate serves on the executive board for numerous student organizations, including: the Federalist Society, the Public Interest Law Organization, the Pro Bono Project and the National Trial Team. In each of his roles, Nate strives to ensure that his fellow students are given fair opportunities to grow both personally and intellectually. In addition to his extracurricular involvement, Nate has also had the opportunity to spend prior summers working at an Am200 law firm, in an in-house legal department and for a judge on the North Carolina Court of Appeals.

MIA FEHRENBACH
GMU Antonin Scalia Law
School
Arlington, VA

Mia grew up in Tacoma, Washington and graduated from University of Washington where she studied English, education and global health. While working as a Kindergarten teacher in Oklahoma, Mia continued her studies at Johns Hopkins University School of Education and earned a Master of Science in education. After five years in the classroom and one year in school leadership as an instructional coach, she decided to expand on her passion for children and families and pursue a career in law. She is primarily interested in education policy and family law. Mia just finished her first year of law school at University of Maryland where she is an active member of the Federalist Society. She will be starting her second year of law school at GMU Antonin Scalia Law School.

JESSE GREEN

*The Ohio State University, Moritz
College of Law
Columbus, OH*

Jesse graduated magna cum laude from Asbury University in Wilmore, KY, with a degree in political science and history. While attending Asbury, Jesse interned in Senator Rand Paul's Office and with the Kentucky General Assembly. He also worked on various political campaigns. Jesse just finished his second year at The Ohio State University Moritz College of Law. During his first summer of law school, Jesse externed with The Honorable Alice M. Batchelder on the 6th Circuit. Jesse also just finished working a legislative clinic placement with the Ohio Senate Republicans.

NATHANIEL HOTES

*GMU Antonin Scalia Law School
Alexandria, VA*

Nathan is a third-year law student hoping to practice in the area between constitutional law and politics after graduation. Nathan chose to study law in D.C. out of a desire to use his knowledge of history and politics to make an active difference. He joined the First Amendment Clinic and Boyden C. Gray Center for the Study of the Administrative State. He is an articles editor for the Civil Rights Law Journal. His work at the Pacific Legal Foundation, Fauquier County Commonwealth Attorney's Office, Republican National Committee and Arlington County Courthouse have allowed him to work extensively in both political and constitutional law. Other experiences such as working with the Federalist Society and Heritage Foundation, getting a legal history article published with the Journal of the American Revolution, presenting at five national political science conferences and winning the 2018 International Leadership Association Student Case competition were the result of Nathan's writings in this area.

RADOMIR JUREWICZ

*University of Illinois Law
Chicago, IL*

Rad is a third-year law student at the University of Illinois. Before college, Rad worked as a options trader at a boutique investment education company. He graduated from University of Illinois-Chicago with a B.S. in computer engineering with a special focus in artificial intelligence and machine learning. He interned at the White House IT department before being admitted to Ph.D. program in software engineering, after which he decided to attend law school instead. He was a law clerk at Goldwater Institute his first-year summer and argued in the appellate court on behalf of the State of Illinois as part of a clinic over the past year. He is currently a clerk at Pacific Legal Institute and is applying for a commission as a Navy JAG.

ANTHONY LEONARDI

*University of South Dakota Law
School
Vermillion, SD*

Anthony is a rising third-year law student at the University of South Dakota Knudson School of Law. A native Floridian, Anthony graduated from the University of Florida with a major in political science and minors in history and mass communication. He then went on to work as a reporter for the Washington Examiner, covering breaking news and the Supreme Court. As a freelance writer, Anthony's work has been featured in outlets like The Daily Wire, National Review and the American Conservative. During his first-year summer, Anthony interned with the Office of General Counsel for Florida Governor Ron DeSantis. During his second year of law school, Anthony served as the president of the South Dakota Federalist Society, a trial advocate on the USD Knudson Law Trial Advocacy Team and a Staff Writer for the South Dakota Law Review. During his third year, Anthony will work as the lead articles editor for the South Dakota Law Review. Anthony's personal interests include mixed martial arts, musical theatre and philosophy.

KERRY MULLINS

*Georgetown Law
Washington, DC*

Kerry is a rising second-year student at Georgetown University Law Center. Prior to law school, Kerry obtained her Bachelor of Science from Cornell University and worked in the international trade industry. At Cornell, Kerry participated in international development and study abroad programs in India, Vietnam and Uganda. At Georgetown, Kerry is a first-year representative for the Federalist Society, a member of the Conservative and Libertarian Law Student's Association and a student fellow at the Georgetown Center for the Constitution. In her free time, Kerry enjoys running, baking and trying new restaurants.

WYATT MULLINS

*Washington University Law
Castle Rock, CO*

Wyatt is a rising second-year student at Washington University in St. Louis School of Law where he is a board member at the WashU chapter of the Federalist Society and a member of the Christian Legal Fellowship. Wyatt graduated from the University of Colorado Boulder in 2020 with a bachelor's in journalism and a minor in history. Prior to starting law school, Wyatt served as a political appointee at the U.S. Office of Personnel Management where he worked closely with White House personnel to achieve senior policy goals. Wyatt is a Christian, a hockey player and a fanatical Pittsburgh Penguins fan. When he's not preparing for class, he can be found on Chess.com.

ELIZABETH PRETZMAN

*GMU Antonin Scalia Law School
Arlington, VA*

Elizabeth is a rising second-year student at George Mason University Antonin Scalia Law School. She graduated summa cum laude from Creighton University in May 2022 with a Bachelor of Science in criminal justice and political science. During her undergraduate studies, she interned on the Hill for then-Minority Leader Kevin McCarthy and in one of Senator Joni Ernst's District Offices. At Scalia Law, she is involved with pro bono volunteering and The Federalist Society. Elizabeth is particularly interested in pursuing a career in constitutional law, administrative law, election law or government work upon graduation.

LEAH RODDENBERRY

*Catholic University of America
Columbus School of Law
Washington, DC*

Leah Roddenberry is a Florida native and just completed her first year at the Columbus School of Law where she is involved in the Federalist Society, the Student Bar Association and the Guild of Catholic Lawyers. Before law school, Leah served as Miss Florida 2021 and was named a Top Ten Finalist at the 100th Anniversary Miss America Competition, through which she has received more than $45,000 dollars in scholarship assistance. As Miss Florida, Leah traveled the state educating students to make positive life choices, working with various nonprofits and encouraging young girls to step into their potential and take on leadership positions. She then served Floridians as an intern in Senator Rubio's office, as well as interning in Congressman Buchanan's district office. Leah is a cum laude graduate from the University of Florida, where she was a member of Florida Blue Key, the oldest and most prestigious leadership honorary society in the state of Florida.

KAMERON ST. CLARE

*Emory Law
Decatur, GA*

A first-generation American and native of Laguna Beach, California, Kameron grew up in Central Florida. He attended Stetson University for his undergraduate studies, where he majored in political science and philosophy, graduating in 2011. He then received an M.A. in political theory from The University of Sheffield in 2012. Following that, he worked as a teacher and then as a journalist before pursuing a Master of Philosophy in politics at the University of Oxford. In 2015, he was a legislative fellow with the U.S. House of Representatives. After graduating from Oxford in 2016, Kameron worked in healthcare administration. In 2021, Kameron began law school at Emory University School of Law. During his first year at Emory, Kameron was one of the four co-founders of the Emory Free Speech Forum. Originally denied a charter by Emory Law School, EFSF was represented by the Foundation Against Intolerance and Racism and the Foundation for Individual Rights and Expression and gained official recognition after a seven-month battle with the law school.

IAN STEVENS

University of Michigan Law
Ann Arbor, MI

Ian just completed his first year of law school at the University of Michigan Law School, where he is active in the Federalist Society. He earned a Bachelor of Arts in history and political science with distinction at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. At Carolina, Ian wrote for the Carolina Political Review and worked on political science research projects. In his free time, Ian enjoys hiking, martial arts and reading.

GRAYSON STEWART

University of Akron Law
Cuyahoga Falls, OH

Grayson just completed his first year of law school. During law school, Grayson was the first-year class representative for both The Federalist Society and the Business Law Society, where he assisted in scheduling guest speakers, among others activities. While attending undergrad at the University of Alabama, Grayson worked for the Alabama Football recruiting department for four years. In his free time, Grayson enjoys golfing, traveling and watching sports.

ANDERSON TITTLE

Baylor University Law
Waco, TX

Anderson recently finished her first year at Baylor University of Law. Before law school, she attended Texas A&M University and received her undergraduate degree in psychology. While there, she served as a senior leader of the Cadet Corps, attending international affairs conferences across the nation in conjunction with other military academies. She also volunteered her time as a teaching scholar tutoring fellow students. She is a member of Phi Beta Kappa, the Women's Legal Society and is currently pursuing independent research on growth-mindset factors in law students.

ROHAN VAIDYA

*Notre Dame Law
South Bend, IN*

Rohan is a rising second-year law student at Notre Dame Law School. He received his Bachelor of Arts in government and history from The University of Texas at Austin, where he graduated with liberal arts honors. Before law school, Rohan worked in finance at S&P Global Ratings and in business development at Cravath, Swaine, & Moore LLP. At Notre Dame, he is a member of the Federalist Society, he serves as his class's honor council representative for the Student Bar Association and is an officer in the Asian Pacific American Law Students Association. In his free time, Rohan enjoys traveling, writing short stories, playing the piano and cheering on the McLaren Formula 1 team.

LOUIS VILLACCI

*GMU Antonin Scalia Law School
Arlington, VA*

Louis is a rising second-year student at George Mason University Antonin Scalia Law School. At Scalia Law, he is a member of several student groups, including the Student Bar Association, the Federalist Society and the Pro Bono Society. Louis graduated magna cum laude from SUNY Stony Brook University in December of 2017 with a Bachelor of Arts in political science and in Spanish language and literature. During college he was fortunate to study abroad at the University of Santiago de Compostela in Spain. Prior to law school, Louis was most recently a congressional aide for Congressman Lee Zeldin. He has also worked for the Republican National Committee and the New Hampshire Republican State Committee.

TFAS Academic Internship Programs
1706 New Hampshire Avenue NW
Washington, DC 20009